First Day of Brainerd's 50th Anniversary Celebration and Home Coming Draws Huge Crowds to Brainerd

Chairman A. J. Halsted and Reception Committee Ladies and Gentlemen Meet Trains, Brainerd Municipal Band in Attendance

Fair skies and a zephyr of a wind inaugurated the first day of Brainerd's tremendous 50th anniversary celebration and home coming festivities, which stretches its joyful way from July 3 to 9. Everything is working in harmony and enthusiasm to make this double event the greatest in the entire history of the city.

Visitors began to arrive early. Twin City trains Saturday night were loaded with an extra passenger list for Brainerd, bent on seeing all the ceremonies. The vanguard of automobile travel early headed for Brainerd and the tourist park soon housed an ever increasing colony. Every train is continuing to bring in its quota of home comers and visitors.

Sunday papers showered publicity on Brainerd in various quarters.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press of July 2 carried Frank Wing's sketches, 19 of them, plus a well written story on the celebration. As the St. Paul Pioneer Press circulates away out to Montana and in other directions, it did a world of good in focusing attention on Brainerd. The issue contained sketches of S. R. Adair, O. J. Bouma, Mayor F. E. Little, R. J. Tinkelpaugh, R. R. Wise, "Little Johnny" Stanton, Walter Wieland, C. Bruhn, Richard S. Wilcox, John A. Hoffbauer, R. M. Sheets, Luke Spencer, Clyde Parker, W. H. Cleary, Jock Dryburgh, Edward Crust, Col. A. J. Halsted, Rev. Frederick Errington, Henry I. Cohen.

In his introduction Mr. Wing said: "We have lately had what we regard as a unique experience. It came to us a few days ago in Brainerd—lovely and peppy Brainerd, where the fishing is ever good and the people ever happy, except when their most famous fellow townsman, 'Bullet Joe' Bush, pitcher for the New York Yankees, loses a game."

The Minneapolis Sunday Tribune carried a half page airplane picture of Brainerd and with it the announcement of Brainerd's 50th anniversary and home coming week, July 3 to 9. Many copies of the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Minneapolis Tribune were sold in Brainerd.

The Duluth News Tribune of Sunday carried a big story on the home coming and the preparations made for housing the visitors, the latter being under the direction of Chairman R. R. Wise and associates.

Reception Committee

Reinforced by the Brainerd Municipal band, the reception committee headed by Chairman Col. A. J. Halsted, veteran editor of the city, assisted by these committee men and women greeted the old timers and visitors today as they arrived on trains: R. R. Wise, Con O'Brien, C. D. Johnson, W. S. McClenahan, John A. Hoffbauer, Mons Mahlum, John Carlson, Dr. R. A. Beise, O. A. Peterson, Henry I. Cohen, Andy Gleriet, Chas. Mudge, Wm. E. Corkery, H. P. Dunn, Dr. J. A. Thabes, W. H. Gemmell, Ed Crust, E. G. Roth, Mrs. W. A. Fleming, Mrs. A. M. Opsahl, Mrs. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. A. C. Weber, Mrs. Emma Forsyth, Mrs. J. P. Anderson, Mrs. Fred Swanson, Miss Marie Canan, Miss Ilay McColl, Mrs. Irma Hartley, Mrs. W. F. Dieckhaus, Mrs. J. P. Early, Mrs. E. J. Quinn, Mrs. D. M. Clark, Mrs. Rose Parker, Mrs. Bertha Theviot.

Carnival Company Here

The Morris & Castle big carnival show entrained Sunday evening at 6 o'clock and quickly got its tented wonders pitched in position. They carry 15 tented attractions, four riding devices, 25 carloads of fun and mirth. There is a wonderful water circus, whirl of death, athletic stadium, frontier days show, jungle land, Dixie minstrels; a dog, pony and monkey circus; midgits' theatre; "Over the Waves"; "Dr. Dippy's Sanatorium"; "The Crusader" and last but not least Morris and Castles wild awake circus side show.

It is one of the biggest carnivals seen in years in Brainerd and from advance reports given has many wonderful attractions. Shows will be given daily July 3 to 8 inclusive.

4th of July Parade

Fourth of July ceremonies start off with the big parade in the morning. At 9 a. m. the shop whistle will blow three blasts, when all floats must be in position. At 9:15 a. m. two blasts are sounded, when the parade moves. At 9:30 a. m. one blast (Continued on Page 5)

Publicity Committee Named by the Local Shopmen Meet at Labor Hall

The Dispatch visited union headquarters of the men on strike in Trades and Labor hall in the Iron Exchange building between 9 and 10 o'clock Monday morning. At that time the names of the men on the publicity committee were given out as follows: J. J. Roney, Oscar H. Oelwein and John Gabion. There was nothing to report by the committee up to 10 a. m. but the committee stated that anything of interest would be offered the Dispatch later in the day.

The rooms were crowded during the hour before 10 a. m. with the strikers who are required to be on hand to register each day.

By the Publicity Committee

Someone, it matters not who, once said, "You can fool some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time." This is particularly true regarding the railroad situation, because slowly but surely the people of the United States are beginning to realize they were fooled into believing that the railroads were really doomed, unless they were afforded financial relief such as was handed them under the provisions of the Esch-Cummins bill, known as the Transportation Act of 1920.

It will be remembered this law was enacted at the request of the railroads despite the objection of organized labor, which did all in its power to prevent the passage of the measure. Under the provisions of the law the railroads were permitted to mulct the United States treasury of hundreds of millions of dollars.

Not content with receiving that which the law gave them, the railroads have been found guilty of dipping into public funds to the tune of millions more, accepting everything in the law accruing to their benefit, the railroads have flagrantly violated many of its provisions, and have defied the United States railroad labor board whenever a decision has been rendered against them.

It is strange that men who ordinarily are respectable citizens, should in the capacity of railroad executives, be guilty of lying and stealing, nevertheless it is a fact, and although it may not have been done for personal gain, yet as a consequence the public has had to foot the bill. Gradually these railroad executives are being forced into the open. For years they have been able to cover up their crooked deals, but when such men as Glenn Plumb, W. Jett Lauck, Frank Warne and other skillful analysts get busy on Interstate Commerce commission reports, the truth is bound to be disclosed, and this is what has happened.

First, it was shown that during a period when the roads were operated under private control, although the government was footing the bills, certain railroads, among which were the Pennsylvania, the New York Central and the Atlantic Coast Line, sent their locomotives and cars to private shops for repairs at cost of three or four times more than the work could have been done for in their own shops. These facts developed at hearings held by the Interstate Commerce commission last year. It was shown that the Pennsylvania alone spent more than $6,000,000 of public funds for this purpose than was necessary.

Has the government compelled restitution of this amount? It has not. On the other hand, the government has been feeding the railroads hundreds of millions of dollars, to which they have no more right than have the inhabitants of Mars.

From figures supplied by the Interstate Commerce commission, it is shown that, based on the value of the 24 Class 1 railroads, the value of all railroad properties would be a little over $8,669,000,000, or $10,300,000,000 less than the value fixed a year ago by the commission as a basis on which the roads should be permitted to earn six per cent.

Mr. Plumb, general counsel for the railroad employees, presented these and other figures to the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, making it clear that they had been

AUTO ACCIDENTS IN DEATH TOLL SUNDAY

(By United Press)
Duluth, July 3.—Four men were drowned and one injured early Sunday when their automobile crashed through the gates of the Lamphorn bridge and plunged 50 feet into St. Louis bay. The dead are George Cleary, John Turie, Arch McKenzie and John Curry. Charles Wright was badly cut by glass.

Two Killed at Buffalo

St. Paul, July 3.—Robert Lind, 28, and his brother Albert, 19, were almost instantly killed late Sunday when their automobile went over an embankment near Buffalo, Minn.

The wife of Robert was perhaps fatally injured, but their 18 months old baby escaped unhurt.

CUT TO DEATH BY AIRPLANE PROPELLER

(By United Press)
Chicago, July 3.—Louis James, youngest of the country's stunt flyers, was cut to death by an airplane propeller in mid-air while leaping from one plane to another at Harvey, Sunday.

His body dropped more than 1,000 feet and crashed almost at the feet of his fiancée, Miss Clara Triffman.

James, who was a protégé of the late Ormer Locklear, was attempting to change from one plane to another by the rope ladder method.

Washington, July 3.—Government chiefs at the Harding coal conference today proposed that the miners and operators appoint an arbitration committee to determine a sound basis for settlement of the national strike.

Both sides immediately went into executive caucus on the government suggestion. The government suggested that this arbitration committee be composed of six or eight or ten of the leading operators and miners.

This would take up the work of the conference which would be adjourned for a week to enable the committee to thresh out the facts.

The committee, at the end of that time, would report back to the general conference.

Coal Conference Adjourns

Washington, July 3.—The Harding coal conference today adjourned until next Monday without taking any definite action toward settlement of the national strike.

This announcement was made by government officials at the conference following secret caucus of the opposing factions on the government's suggestion that a small arbitration committee be appointed to lay the foundation for a settlement.

"We believe there will be more chance of an agreement after the miners and operators have been home and talked things over with their people," Secretary of Commerce Hoover declared after the conference had adjourned.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 3.—"My God, I have sent No. 33 on the wrong track."

John Dewalt, signal man at Winslow Junction, hammered out the above frantic telegram to the dispatcher's office at Atlantic City a few moments after the "midnight flyer" flashed past his tower. Atlantic City made desperate but unavailing efforts to reach Dewalt after his message had been received. He had fainted.

Tower Man's Story

Winslow Junction, July 3.—John Dewalt, 60, the tower man at Winslow Junction, was found at his home by a detachment of troopers under Lieut. William Sickler, who went to question him. An attempt was made to take the old man to jail, but his enfeebled condition made it impossible. The troopers, one on each side of him, attempted to help him through the door of his home on the way to jail. The old man became hysterical, and collapsed.

"My God!" he screamed, "I sent the engine through the wrong switch. I sent those people to their death. Oh, why did I do it. I'll hear their screams and shrieks and see their mangled bodies for the rest of my life. Let me die—I don't dare to live any longer. I want to join those whom I sent to death."

Lieut. Sickler changed his mind about taking Dewalt to jail. He was put to bed and a guard posted around him. He will be taken to jail if he ever recovers.

Lieut. Sickler and his operatives reached the scene of the wreck ten minutes after the crash. Investigation lead to the search for the aged tower man.

Dewalt, according to physicians, is crazed over the wreck. "His mind is shattered," said an attendant. "He may get his wish of joining the dead."

Laurence Dewalt, the tower man's son, declared his father blameless. The wreck has unbalanced him temporarily, causing him to admit responsibility for the wreck, said the younger Dewalt.

He evidently referred to reports that his father had flashed to Atlantic City hat he was to blame for the wreck. "A probe of the wreck will show that pa' was not responsible," said the son. Dewalt entered the service of the railroad in 1898 and has been tower man at Winslow Junction ever since.

Winslow Junction, N. J., July 3.—Eight persons were killed, two others were missing and 37 injured when the midnight Philadelphia & Reading express plunged from the rails while traveling at a high speed, in a curve here early today.

The bodies of the dead were removed to Camden morgues. The injured were rushed to the Atlantic City hospital.

The train was completely wrecked, and it is feared the tangled wreckage over which wrecking crews worked frantically, held other victims. Deep yellow mud lay beneath the train.

The accident was caused by the improper setting of a switch. The switch took the flyer into a curve leading to Wildwood and Cape May, a branch of the regular line. The switch was set for a small freight train. The (Continued on Page 8)

Architect Walter D. MacLeith and Mrs. MacLeith of St. Paul, the supervising architect of the Northwestern hospital of this city came to Brainerd Sunday. They were accompanied by Ed, Stallberg also of St. Paul. They are staying at the Harrison hotel for the first day of home coming week.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLeith are touring through this part of the state and expect to leave for home on the 5th. —Welcome to Brainerd—

Peppal Hat Worn in 800.

Originally the thara or triple crown of the pope, was a plain high cap much like those in which doges of Venice are so often represented in all pictures. It was first introduced by Pope Nicholas I. in 830. Just when the first coronet was added is a matter of uncertainty, but the second was placed by Pope Boniface VIII in 1235 and the third by Pope Urban VI, about 1398.

The Moose's "Shovels."

Old moose shed the big, shovel-like antlers early in January, younger ones weeks later. By the middle of May the new growth of horn protrudes less than an inch from the skull. In three months the development of the 70-pound shovel, often six feet across, is entirely completed.

"No use getting excited—
the floor is Valsparred"

ORDINARY varnish would have been ruined. But, luckily, the floor was Valsparred.

Soaked for hours with puddles of hot water, it emerged absolutely undamaged—never a dull streak, never a splotch of white. For Valspar is absolutely waterproof.

There are any number of places throughout the house that need just such a varnish—a varnish that is accident-proof, that will not mar or turn white under any conditions.

Fruit acids, greases and oils, hot, soapy water have no effect upon Valspar.

No matter what it is, from the drain-board in the kitchen to the front door—anything that's worth varnishing is worth Valsparing.

Easy to apply and dries hard over night.

Help Austrian Children.

Danish joint committees for help to war devastated countries report that in 1921 Denmark entertained 5,584 children from Austria for several months, and that since September, 1919, Denmark has cared for 16,455 Austrian children and 5,428 German children. Furthermore, 120 German little ones needing special care were nursed in a special camp. Gifts of hospital equipment were sent to Austria and Germany, and 40,000 francs was spent supporting a children's home near Rhelms. Food and clothing to the value of 70,000 Danish crowns were sent to Germany and Austria and financial assistance for children amounting to 25,000 crowns was sent to Belgium, 38,775 to Poland, and 34,500 to France.

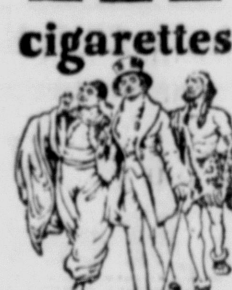

Strike Not New Weapon.

That strikes are not of recent origin, but that they have, for many centuries, troubled the employer of labor, is said to be interestingly established by a record recently discovered in certain ancient Egyptian hieroglyphic tablets. These tablets were found in the excavation of some ruins at Thebes, and cast a strong light upon the labor conditions of the city 3,000 years ago. Details are given of many interesting phases of a strike when a large number of workmen notified their employers they would discontinue work unless their back pay were promptly given them and a new wage scale arranged.

Deleterious Imitation.

"Don't you sometimes lose faith in human nature?"

"Never," replied Senator Sorghum. "You can always depend on human nature for generous actions and unprejudiced opinions. That refers, of course, to genuine human nature, which isn't always so easy to find. A good many people feel that they have to depend on human artifice and dissimulation. Human nature, my friend, is all right. What makes the trouble in society is the de-vor-sed human."

compiled, not by himself, but by engineering experts employed by the Interstate Commerce commission. W. Jett Lauck, for the Railway Employee's Department, and Frank J. Warner, for the brotherhoods, expert economists, have presented testimony equally damaging to the railroads, all of which has had the effect of causing the people, or at least some of them, to sit up and take notice. Senator Cummins, who fought for the passage of the bill bearing his name, shakes his head dolefully and admits he also was fooled by the railroads. It would be a difficult matter now to find anyone in or out of congress, who will say a good word for the Esch-Cummins bill. The friends it once had are remaining discreetly silent.

Oh, yes, the railroads fooled a lot of people for a time, and are still fooling some, but the number is daily growing less.

How about the railroad executives, are they worried or dismayed? Not so one can notice it. They are going along in the even tenor of their way, observing the law if it suits their convenience to do so; evading or violating it when it doesn't. Snapping their fingers in the face of the railroad labor board, they are traveling merrily along the road that will surely lead them to official destruction.

The recent hearings before the railroad labor board on the so-called "dummy contracts" have disclosed a mighty interesting state of affairs, and it remains to be seen whether the railroads can get away with their attempt to escape an observance of rules established by the board, by farming out work to dummy corporations organized with a nominal capital—in some instances only $1,000—for the express purpose of evading the law. The railroads of this country have gotten away with it so far, but they are up against it now. It is a fight to the finish. Labor is fighting with weapons similar to those used by the railroad executives—"brains."

Trained, experienced, analytic minds are delving into records that the railroads would keep secret. The pitiless light of publicity will be directed to their doings, and slowly, due to the unwillingness of a capitalistic press to publish the truth, but nevertheless surely, the people are awakening and eventually private ownership and operation of the railroads will be a thing of the past.

The railroads should, and will be, government owned and democratically operated. Vox populi vel demit. —Publicity Committee, Federated Shop Crafts, July 3, 1922.

Shops Picketed at Topeka

(By United Press.)

Topeka, Kan., July 3.—Ranks of striking railroad men picketing the city shops was expected here today, Governor Henry Allen said, following reports that strikers stood in front of the shops and took the names of men who returned to work.

"There is no question about that. It is picketing in violation of the Kansas laws," said Allen. He also announced that if the local officials were unable to prevent them from picketing, the state would do so.

At "Milwaukee" Road Shops

Milwaukee, July 3.—Sheriff forces broke up an alleged strike blockade by striking shopmen at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul shops here today. People were allowed to pass to and from the shops unmolested. No disorder was in evidence.

Loses Standing With U. S. Railroad Labor Board

Chicago, July 3.—The railroad shop crafts unions which called a strike Saturday lost all standing before the United States railroad labor board today.

The board declared the strikers organizations would be no longer recognized and suggested that men who remained in the employment of the roads to get together with newly employed men and form an organization to take the place of the shop crafts unions.

The board declared that the shop crafts workers were no longer employees of the railroads and therefore not governed by the transportation act.

The ruling will be applied to all the union organizations ordering their men to strike.

The board reiterated the statement that every resort at the government's command would be called upon to protect men in the employment of the railroads.

Maintenance of Way Men Meet

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—Officials of the Maintenance of Way unions met here today to consider throwing its membership of nearly 250,000 men into the railroad strike.

E. F. Grable, president of the union, met with his executive council to review the vote of the members on the strike issue.

It has been semi-officially announced that the men were overwhelmingly in favor of the strike. In case their executive council decides to call a strike, thereby joining the 400,000 shop workers who walked out Saturday, it will take 36 to 48 hours until the walk-out gets under way, Grable said before he went into the session.

STUDENT CONFERENCE

Alfred Dillan Attends International Meeting at College Camp, Lake Geneva

Alfred Dillan has returned to his home in this city from the International Student Conference which held its ten-day sessions at College Camp, Lake Geneva, under the auspices of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association from June 16 to 26.

Mr. Dillan was one of the delegates at the conference from the University of Minnesota. He said that the conference was attended by more than 650 men representing the colleges and universities of the states of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota. Among the delegates were students from China, Japan, India, Arabia, and other countries of Asia and Europe in addition to those from South America. Many of the delegates responded to the plea of the speakers representing all the missionary lands and America made to them that they invest their lives in service for the solution of the problems of the world.

The daily program of the conference began at six o'clock each morning when the bugler sounded reveille. At six twenty-five all in the camp devoted themselves to the observance of the Morning Watch, during which they read their Bibles and engaged in meditation. Breakfast was followed by the meeting of all the delegates in 36 Bible discussion groups under the general direction of Harrison S. Elliott of New York. This was followed by the study of the requirements for service in various vocations. General meetings were held at which evangelism; international, inter-racial and industrial conditions were discussed in the light of the teachings of Jesus.

SOUVENIR HISTORY

Of Brainerd and Story of City's 50th Anniversary Being Compiled by Ingolf Dillan

Ingolf Dillan is preparing a souvenir history of Brainerd, together with a story of the city's Fiftieth anniversary celebration. This history has the sanction of the executive committee which whole heartedly endorsed Mr. Dillan's suggestion.

The outline which will be followed has already been worked out and contemplates a division of Brainerd's history into three parts. The first part will give a full account of the Fiftieth anniversary celebration and will be profusely illustrated. The second part will give a complete history of the city's development and a biography of leading citizens of the past with pictures of buildings and citizens. The third part will deal with Brainerd as it is today with a story of its industries, biographies of its leading citizens, and many pictures of these.

The history will be of about 100 pages and will be named "Brainerd's Half Century. An illustrated history of Brainerd the Hub of Minnesota. A half century of growth and progress."

When one member of the executive committee of the home coming anniversary had the plan outlined to him, he said, "Ingolf, put my name down for five copies right now."

Chimney Swifts and Their Glee.
The bird called the chimney swift, without stopping in its flight, snaps off with its beak or feet little twigs at the end of dead branches, and these it carries, one by one, into a chimney, gluing them against the side until it has finished an almost flat, shelflike lattice cradle. Only during the nesting season do certain glands in its mouth secrete a brownish fluid that quickly gums and hardens when exposed to the air. When the basket has been stuck against a chimney-side it looks as if it were covered with a thin coat of isinglass. On this lattice from four to six white eggs are laid.

compiled, not by himself, but by engineering experts employed by the Interstate Commerce commission. W. Jett Lauck, for the Railway Employee's Department, and Frank J. Warner, for the brotherhoods, expert economists, have presented testimony equally damaging to the railroads, all of which has had the effect of causing the people, or at least some of them, to sit up and take notice. Senator Cummins, who fought for the passage of the bill bearing his name, shakes his head dolefully and admits he also was fooled by the railroads. It would be a difficult matter now to find anyone in or out of congress, who will say a good word for the Esch-Cummins bill. The friends it once had are remaining discreetly silent.

Oh, yes, the railroads fooled a lot of people for a time, and are still fooling some, but the number is daily growing less.

How about the railroad executives, are they worried or dismayed? Not so one can notice it. They are going along in the even tenor of their way, observing the law if it suits their convenience to do so; evading or violating it when it doesn't. Snapping their fingers in the face of the railroad labor board, they are traveling merrily along the road that will surely lead them to official destruction.

The recent hearings before the railroad labor board on the so-called "dummy contracts" have disclosed a mighty interesting state of affairs, and it remains to be seen whether the railroads can get away with their attempt to escape an observance of rules established by the board, by farming out work to dummy corporations organized with a nominal capital—in some instances only $1,000—for the express purpose of evading the law. The railroads of this country have gotten away with it so far, but they are up against it now. It is a fight to the finish. Labor is fighting with weapons similar to those used by the railroad executives—"brains."

Trained, experienced, analytic minds are delving into records that the railroads would keep secret. The pitiless light of publicity will be directed to their doings, and slowly, due to the unwillingness of a capitalistic press to publish the truth, but nevertheless surely, the people are awakening and eventually private ownership and operation of the railroads will be a thing of the past.

The railroads should, and will be, government owned and democratically operated. Vox populi will demand it. —Publicity Committee, Federated Shop Crafts, July 3, 1922.

Shops Picketed at Topeka

(By United Press.) Topeka, Kan., July 3.—Ranks of striking railroad men picketing the city shops was expected here today, Governor Henry Allen said, following reports that strikers stood in front of the shops and took the names of men who returned to work.

"There is no question about that. It is picketing in violation of the Kansas laws," said Allen. He also announced that if the local officials were unable to prevent them from picketing, the state would do so.

At "Milwaukee" Road Shops

Milwaukee, July 3.—Sheriff forces broke up an alleged strike blockade by striking shopmen at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul shops here today. People were allowed to pass to and from the shops unmolested. No disorder was in evidence.

Loses Standing With U. S. Railroad Labor Board

Chicago, July 3.—The railroad shop crafts unions which called a strike Saturday lost all standing before the United States railroad labor board today.

The board declared the strikers organizations would be no longer recognized and suggested that men who remained in the employment of the roads to get together with newly employed men and form an organization to take the place of the shop crafts unions.

The board declared that the shop crafts workers were no longer employees of the railroads and therefore not governed by the transportation act.

The ruling will be applied to all the union organizations ordering their men to strike.

The board reiterated the statement that every resort at the government's command would be called upon to protect men in the employment of the railroads.

Maintenance of Way Men Meet

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—Officials of the Maintenance of Way unions met here today to consider throwing its membership of nearly 250,000 men into the railroad strike.

E. F. Grable, president of the union, met with his executive council to review the vote of the members on the strike issue.

It has been semi-officially announced that the men were overwhelmingly in favor of the strike. In case their executive council decides to call a strike, thereby joining the 400,000 shop workers who walked out Saturday, it will take 36 to 48 hours until the walk-out gets under way, Grable said before he went into the session.

WELCOME, OLD-TIMERS!

THE DISPATCH joins with the hospitable citizens of Brainerd in extending a most cordial welcome to the old-time friends and neighbors who are flocking here to be with us during "Home Coming Week" and participate with us in celebrating our city's 50th anniversary.

Many of them were among the earliest settlers in Brainerd. They were the pioneers who did much to build a city in a vast wilderness. They are of the sturdy stock that has made Minnesota one of the greatest states in the Union—men and women to whom the present generation owes a much greater debt than it can ever pay.

Old-timers, you are thrice welcome!

You will be met with a glad hand and a pleasant smile from all our people. The keys of the city are yours; our latch-string is always out to you. We will do all in our power to entertain you and make your visit both pleasant and profitable, and we earnestly hope you will enjoy every moment of your stay among us. You will no doubt note many changes, many important improvements, in our city, since "the early days." Look us over and see what rapid strides we have made, especially during recent years. The Brainerd of today, you will no doubt observe, is a beautiful, busy, bustling, up-to-date little city, with a promise of even greater and more rapid growth and development in the near future.

And we also heartily welcome all visitors, friends or strangers, during this interesting event. We want the world to know more about Brainerd. We want people to come and see us, get acquainted with us and see for themselves what opportunities there may be for business or industrial investments in Brainerd and vicinity. We naturally want everybody to know that the "City of the Pines" of pioneer days, with its cheap wooden buildings and sandy streets, notwithstanding its occasional reverses, has developed into a live, wide-awake, modern young city, with a promising future before it.

To all our visitors we would say, do not fail to visit some of the numerous beauty spots that surround the 200 lovely lakes of which Crow Wing County proudly boasts. You will never regret it.

And in conclusion, we but voice the sentiments of the entire community in adding, that we hope you will come again—and come often. "Brainerd welcomes the coming and speeds the parting guests."

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

MANY years ago James G. Blaine, in one of his eloquent addresses, called attention to the fact that the United States is the only country with a known birthday. All the rest began, they know not when, and grew into power, they know not how, said Mr. Blaine. In all probability, if there had been no Independence Day, England and America combined would not now be so great as each actually is.

Tomorrow will be the 146th birthday of this great nation, a glorious, patriotic holiday of a free people. There is no "Republican," no "Democrat," on the Glorious Fourth—all are Americans. The day will, as usual, be duly celebrated everywhere throughout the country with patriotic demonstrations, eloquent orations, stirring music, fireworks and noisy explosives.

But to the thoughtful mind the anniversary means something more than this. An exchange aptly remarks that "the Fourth of July is a pretty good time for the average citizen, be he farmer or city dweller, to stop and remember that the United States is just about the best place in the world for him to be." And it is true, indeed. A citizen may perhaps be one of the disgruntled ones, for instance; he may have failed to make some money during the past year or so; he may be in debt; but let him stop for a moment and take stock and remember that there is no other of the great countries of the world in which his lot probably would not be a great deal worse.

Indeed, to be an American citizen today is greater even than to be a King—in some European countries. Think it over; and thank God you live in free America.

CARING FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

THE United States, according to Gen. Sawyer, is doing more than any other country in the world for its disabled soldiers. There have been some ill-advised criticisms of the government for its alleged laxity for caring for the war veterans, but the facts submitted by Gen. Sawyer refute all such charges.

The United States is paying out more than $1,000,000 a day in general relief work. The government owns and operates 100 hospitals, in which about 30,000 veterans are given free care and treatment at an expenditure of $60,000,000 a year. Vocational training is provided for 109,000 soldiers at a cost of $30,000,000, and every effort is made to put those men in paying positions when their course of instruction is completed. The government is conducting an insurance business for 600,000 men, and is making more than 50,000 medical examinations every month. The advocates of the soldiers' bonus cannot base their pleas upon any lack of attention at the present time. Whether the bonus passes or not, the United States stands at the top in its program of soldier relief.

Shakespeare Rating in 1593.

As the Greek tongue is made famous and eloquent by Homer, Hesiod, Euripides, Aeschylus, Sophocles, Pindarus, Phocylides and Aristophanes; and the Latin tongue by Virgil, Ovid, Horace, Silius, Iulius, Lucanus, Lucetius, Ausonius and Claudius, so the English tongue is mightily invested in rare ornaments and resplendent embellishments by Sir Philip Sidney, Spenser, Daniel, Drayton, Warner, Shakespeare, Marlowe and Chapman.—Francis Meres, in Palladia Tamia.

Early Impressions.

The little, or almost insensible impressions on our tender infancies have very important and lasting consequences; and there it is as in the fountains of some rivers, where a gentle application of the hand turns the flexible waters into channels that makes them take quite contrary courses; and by this little direction, given them at first, in the source, they receive different tendencies, and arrive at last at very remote and distant places.—Locke.

"POISON CAMPAIGN"
DEFEATED McCUMBER

Washington, July 3.—A "poison campaign" defeated Senator Porter J. McCumber for the republican senatorial nomination in North Dakota, according to a letter today from the senator to his campaign manager, R. J. Hughes, of Fargo.

The letter constitutes McCumber's first official acknowledgement of his defeat by Lynn Frazier, former governor of North Dakota.

Welcome to Brainerd—

Byron's Curl Papers.

The curls which Byron, according to confessions in his newly published letters, was accustomed to bestow upon his numerous loves were not natural, as he wished to have them believed. Scrope Davies burst into the poet's bedroom at Oxford one morning, and surprised him with his hair in curl papers. "Why," said Scrope, "I thought your hair curled naturally?" "Confound you!" growled the poet, "so it does. I take care of that. But that's between ourselves, mind," he added anxiously. "Of course," said Scrope; and went off to tell everybody he knew.

Much Harm Done by Smoke.

It may sound an extreme statement, but there is reason to think that a smokeless atmosphere would do more to rid us of our diseases than any other conceivable means of prevention. We should in summer have a daily flushing of our streets and houses with the great antiseptic, and even in winter the unfiltered rays would "keep down the vermin" which threaten us. We cannot make our winters warmer than they are, but we can most emphatically secure the services of "nature's gamekeeper" to prevent the annual overgrowth of bacterial pests.

Empty Pocket.

"A great many jokes are based on Scotch thrift," "I guess the Scotch can stand it," said Mr. Grumpson. "The fellow who laughs loudest over some body else's desire to look after his pennies is usually in no position to part the anything but his head."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

OTHER PEOPLES' OPINIONS

LABOR MISREPRESENTED

Whereas: The Brainerd Daily Dispatch in its issue of June 26th, 1922, printed an Editorial under the headline "Attitude of Labor Misrepresented" and,

Whereas: The writer of said Editorial took the liberty of condemning the actions of The American Federation of Labor, then in convention assembled at Cincinnati, Ohio, and attempted to vilify the name of Mr. Samuel Gompers, its president, and the delegates who were chosen by the Rank and File of legitimate organized labor of this country, to represent them at that convention, stating that their claim to speak for labor is "Spurious" and their actions "more becoming a conclave of Russian Reds"; this because of the fact that certain progressive resolutions were introduced and passed upon at said convention in its regular sessions assembled, notably one "calling for Congressional veto of Supreme Court Decisions" and,

Whereas: The attitude of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch in attempting to be a guide or guardian of the interests of Organized Labor of Brainerd, and berating its members in the statement "that they will not take the trouble to study the accounts of the meetings of the Cincinnati convention, but their minds will be filled with articles appearing in the labor journals which are merely the mouthpiece of Mr. Gompers and his faction" is an insult to the intelligence of its membership, therefore,

Be It Resolved: That the Brainerd Trades and Labor Assembly, in regular session assembled this 27th day of June, 1922, voice its disapproval of the policy of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch as shown by its Editorial and be it further,

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the meeting and a copy sent to the Brainerd Daily Dispatch for publication.

Big Scale Industry Has Made America Rich

AMERICA is the richest country in the world because of its great natural resources, and because it has utilized large scale organizations to develop them. It has done big things in a big way. Other nations have had more workmen, cheaper labor, more densely settled areas, yet America has outstripped them all. Why? Because of "Big Industry"—vast, centralized organization.

The measure of this big-scale organization is service. The big unit is constructive—far-seeing—resourceful—permanent. It can be depended upon to provide essential commodities in times of stress.

A big organization should be judged by the service it renders.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a big organization, built squarely upon service. It has grown and prospered because of the need for its service. It is doubtful if a smaller organization could give the service rendered by this Company.

Because of its size and efficiency, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) can manufacture on an economical scale. From one natural resource it produces hundreds of useful products at a minimum cost, thus enabling the Company to sell each of its long line of products at a lower price than would otherwise be possible.

Because of its thorough distribution service, resulting from its great volume of business, it is possible for the man living in the remote corners of the 10 Middle Western States served to get such petroleum products as he needs with facility almost equal to that of the man living in the city.

The forecast for 1922 is for a heavier demand for petroleum products than this nation has ever known. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has keyed its entire organization to meet this demand. Regardless of the emergencies which may arise, the Company believes that its organization will be able to meet the situation.

WELCOME, OLD-TIMERS!

THE DISPATCH joins with the hospitable citizens of Brainerd in extending a most cordial welcome to the old-time friends and neighbors who are flocking here to be with us during "Home Coming Week" and participate with us in celebrating our city's 50th anniversary.

Many of them were among the earliest settlers in Brainerd. They were the pioneers who did much to build a city in a vast wilderness. They are of the sturdy stock that has made Minnesota one of the greatest states in the Union—men and women to whom the present generation owes a much greater debt than it can ever pay.

Old-timers, you are thrice welcome!

You will be met with a glad hand and a pleasant smile from all our people. The keys of the city are yours; our latch-string is always out to you. We will do all in our power to entertain you and make your visit both pleasant and profitable, and we earnestly hope you will enjoy every moment of your stay among us. You will no doubt note many changes, many important improvements, in our city, since "the early days." Look us over and see what rapid strides we have made, especially during recent years. The Brainerd of today, you will no doubt observe, is a beautiful, busy, bustling, up-to-date little city, with a promise of even greater and more rapid growth and development in the near future.

And we also heartily welcome all visitors, friends or strangers, during this interesting event. We want the world to know more about Brainerd. We want people to come and see us, get acquainted with us and see for themselves what opportunities there may be for business or industrial investments in Brainerd and vicinity. We naturally want everybody to know that the "City of the Pines" of pioneer days, with its cheap wooden buildings and sandy streets, notwithstanding its occasional reverses, has developed into a live, wide-awake, modern young city, with a promising future before it.

To all our visitors we would say, do not fail to visit some of the numerous beauty spots that surround the 200 lovely lakes of which Crow Wing County proudly boasts. You will never regret it.

And in conclusion, we but voice the sentiments of the entire community in adding, that we hope you will come again—and come often. "Brainerd welcomes the coming and speeds the parting guests."

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

MANY years ago James G. Blaine, in one of his eloquent addresses, called attention to the fact that the United States is the only country with a known birthday. All the rest began, they know not when, and grew into power, they know not how, said Mr. Blaine. In all probability, if there had been no Independence Day, England and America combined would not now be so great as each actually is.

Tomorrow will be the 146th birthday of this great nation, a glorious, patriotic holiday of a free people. There is no "Republican," no "Democrat," on the Glorious Fourth—all are Americans. The day will, as usual, be duly celebrated everywhere throughout the country with patriotic demonstrations, eloquent orations, stirring music, fireworks and noisy explosives.

But to the thoughtful mind the anniversary means something more than this. An exchange aptly remarks that "the Fourth of July is a pretty good time for the average citizen, be he farmer or city dweller, to stop and remember that the United States is just about the best place in the world for him to be." And it is true, indeed. A citizen may perhaps be one of the disgruntled ones, for instance; he may have failed to make some money during the past year or so; he may be in debt; but let him stop for a moment and take stock and remember that there is no other of the great countries of the world in which his lot probably would not be a great deal worse.

Indeed, to be an American citizen today is greater even than to be a King—in some European countries. Think it over; and thank God you live in free America.

CARING FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

THE United States, according to Gen. Sawyer, is doing more than any other country in the world for its disabled soldiers. There have been some ill-advised criticisms of the government for its alleged laxity for caring for the war veterans, but the facts submitted by Gen. Sawyer refute all such charges.

The United States is paying out more than $1,000,000 a day in general relief work. The government owns and operates 100 hospitals, in which about 30,000 veterans are given free care and treatment at an expenditure of $60,000,000 a year. Vocational training is provided for 109,000 soldiers at a cost of $30,000,000, and every effort is made to put those men in paying positions when their course of instruction is completed. The government is conducting an insurance business for 600,000 men, and is making more than 50,000 medical examinations every month. The advocates of the soldiers' bonus cannot base their pleas upon any lack of attention at the present time. Whether the bonus passes or not, the United States stands at the top in its program of soldier relief.

Shakespeare Rating in 1593.

As the Greek tongue is made famous and eloquent by Homer, Hesiod, Euripides, Aeschylus, Sophocles, Pindarus, Phocylides and Aristophanes; and the Latin tongue by Virgil, Ovid, Horace, Silius, Lucan, Lucanus, Lucetius, Ausonius and Claudius, so the English tongue is mightily invested in rare ornaments and resplendent embellishments by Sir Philip Sidney, Spenser, Daniel, Drayton, Warner, Shakespeare, Marlowe and Chapman.—Francis Meres, in Palladia Tamila.

Early Impressions.

The little, or almost insensible impressions on our tender infancies have very important and lasting consequences; and there it is as in the fountains of some rivers, where a gentle application of the hand turns the flexible waters into channels that makes them take quite contrary courses; and by this little direction, given them at first, in the source, they receive different tendencies, and arrive at last at very remote and distant places.—Locke.

"POISON CAMPAIGN"
DEFEATED McCUMBER

Washington, July 3.—A "poison campaign" defeated Senator Porter J. McCumber for the republican senatorial nomination in North Dakota, according to a letter today from the senator to his campaign manager, R. J. Hughes, of Fargo.

The letter constitutes McCumber's first official acknowledgement of his defeat by Lynn Frazier, former governor of North Dakota.

Byron's Curl Papers.

The curls which Byron, according to confessions in his newly published letters, was accustomed to bestow upon his numerous loves were not natural, as he wished to have them believed. Scrope Davies burst into the poet's bedroom at Oxford one morning, and surprised him with his hair in curl papers. "Why," said Scrope, "I thought your hair curled naturally?" "Confound you!" growled the poet, "so it does. I take care of that. But that's between ourselves, mind," he added anxiously. "Of course," said Scrope; and went off to tell everybody he knew.

Much Harm Done by Smoke.

It may sound an extreme statement, but there is reason to think that a smokeless atmosphere would do more to rid us of our diseases than any other conceivable means of prevention. We should in summer have a daily flushing of our streets and houses with the great antiseptic, and even in winter the unfiltered rays would "keep down the vermin" which threaten us. We cannot make our winters warmer than they are, but we can most emphatically secure the services of "nature's gamekeeper" to prevent the annual overgrowth of bacterial pests.

Empty Pocket.

"A great many jokes are based on Scotch thrift," I guess the Scot can stand it," said Mr. Grumpson. "The fellow who laughs loudest over some body else's desire to look after his pennies is usually in no position to rattle anything but his head."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

OTHER PEOPLES' OPINIONS

LABOR MISREPRESENTED

Whereas: The Brainerd Daily Dispatch in its issue of June 28th, 1922, printed an Editorial under the headline "Attitude of Labor Misrepresented" and.

Whereas: The writer of said Editorial took the liberty of condemning the actions of The American Federation of Labor, then in convention assembled at Cincinnati, Ohio, and attempted to vilify the name of Mr. Samuel Gompers, its president, and the delegates who were chosen by the Rank and File of legitimate organized labor of this country, to represent them at that convention, stating that their claim to speak for labor is "Spurious" and their actions "more becoming a conclave of Russian Reds"; this because of the fact that certain progressive resolutions were introduced and passed upon at said convention in its regular sessions assembled, notably one "calling for Congressional veto of Supreme Court Decisions" and.

Whereas: The attitude of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch in attempting to be a guide or guardian of the interests of Organized Labor of Brainerd, and berating its members in the statement "that they will not take the trouble to study the accounts of the meetings of the Cincinnati convention, but their minds will be filled with articles appearing in the labor journals which are merely the mouthpiece of Mr. Gompers and his faction" is an insult to the intelligence of its membership, therefore,

Be It Resolved: That the Brainerd Trades and Labor Assembly, in regular session assembled this 27th day of June, 1922, voice its disapproval of the policy of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch as shown by its Editorial and be it further,

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the meeting and a copy sent to the Brainerd Daily Dispatch for publication.

Big Scale
Industry
Has Made
America Rich

AMERICA is the richest country in the world because of its great natural resources, and because it has utilized large scale organizations to develop them. It has done big things in a big way. Other nations have had more workmen, cheaper labor, more densely settled areas, yet America has outstripped them all. Why? Because of "Big Industry"—vast, centralized organization.

The measure of this big-scale organization is service. The big unit is constructive—far-seeing—resourceful—permanent. It can be depended upon to provide essential commodities in times of stress.

A big organization should be judged by the service it renders.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a big organization, built squarely upon service. It has grown and prospered because of the need for its service. It is doubtful if a smaller organization could give the service rendered by this Company.

Because of its size and efficiency, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) can manufacture on an economical scale. From one natural resource it produces hundreds of useful products at a minimum cost, thus enabling the Company to sell each of its long line of products at a lower price than would otherwise be possible.

Because of its thorough distribution service, resulting from its great volume of business, it is possible for the man living in the remote corners of the 10 Middle Western States served to get such petroleum products as he needs with facility almost equal to that of the man living in the city.

The forecast for 1922 is for a heavier demand for petroleum products than this nation has ever known. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has keyed its entire organization to meet this demand. Regardless of the emergencies which may arise, the Company believes that its organization will be able to meet the situation.

9 p. m.—Fireworks at Koering grounds.

Fireworks at the Koering grounds will face the fill. Mayor Little will have the fill closed to auto traffic during that period.

From 3 to 5:30 p. m. there will be a free dance at Lum park. At the evening dance in the park, after the fireworks, Niles orchestra will play, and a charge will be made, said A. K. Gumaer.

The street dancing will take place between 6th and 7th on Front street afternoon and evening.

Parking Rules

There will be no parking of cars allowed along any parade line during the week, said Mayor Little.

Detectives Here Now

For the protection of old timers, visitors and local people, the city authorities have reinforced the police force. In addition to special patrol men and traffic cops, the mayor has also engaged the services of two detectives, Pinkerton men, who will keep a lookout for pickpockets, burglars and other characters of the outside under world. Any of this outside under world gentry will be given short thrift.

Indians Arrived

The Chippewa braves, squaws and papooses have arrived from Walker. They will form the Indian village and take part in the Fourth of July parade. In the company are Jim Goose, Jack King and Bear Trap.

The Chippewa name for Brainerd in pioneer days, said Gust Kullander, was "Osh-Ke-Odaynah" meaning the "New City".

Barbecue at Lum Park

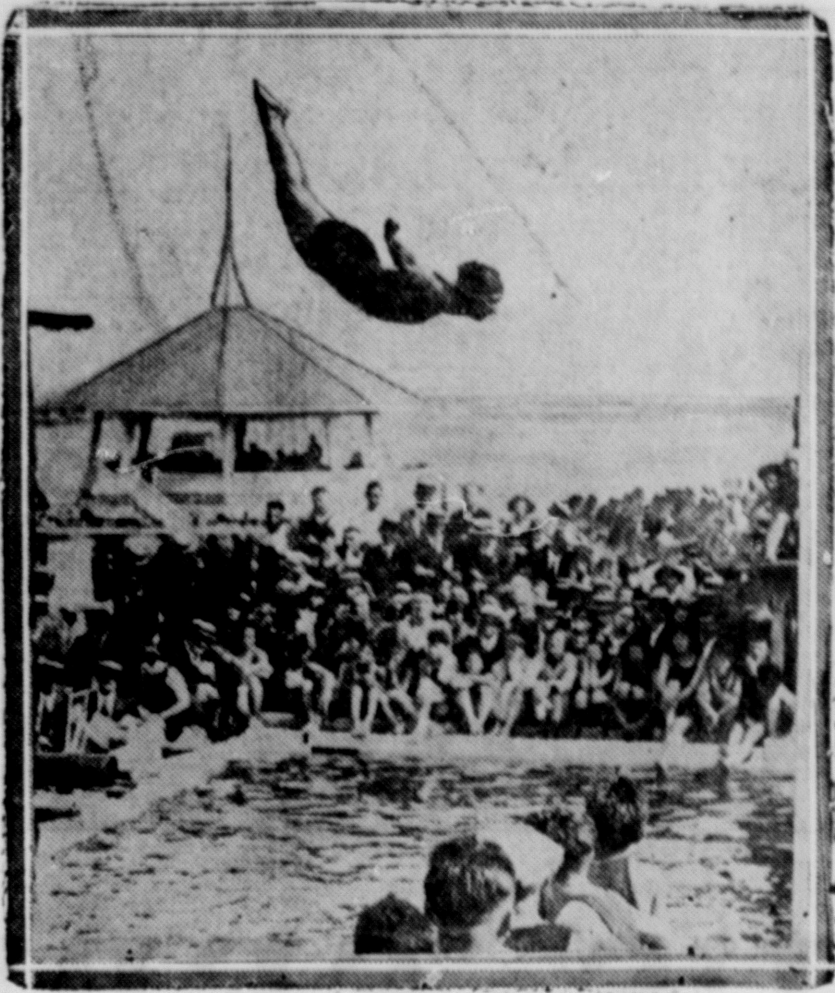

The barbecue at Lum park got started last night when Bob Carew, renowned chef, started to roast 600 pounds of pork and beef. A large trench 30 feet long was dug and oak coals heated the same. Sheet iron was added so the bank would not cave in.

Today the most delicious sandwiches are being served, plus sauce and a cup of coffee, all for 15 cents. Roasted meat may be bought in quantities at 50 cents a pound.

Be sure and visit Lum park where the barbecue holds forth all week. Stands have been erected where the lunches will be served. Mr. Carew has officiated at barbecues from Louisiana to Minnesota, from the east to the west. He has recommendations from Rudolph Lee of Long Prairie, from St. Paul, Chicago and other cities.

PICTURESQUE DIVE IN CONTEST

Elizabeth Becker of the Philadelphia swimming team, executing a swan dive at the Brighton Beach Baths, New York.

HAS RARE VOLUME

American Proud Possessor of One of Oldest Books.

Believed to Have Been Printed in China Before Western Hemisphere Knew of Movable Type.

William Richard, former vice president of the American Numismatic society, who acquired two rare books during a trip to China several years ago, has announced after thorough investigation, his conviction that he has one of the rare books called the "Tanjur," or the Book of the Doctrine of the Tibetans.

For some time after he came into possession of the book, Mr. Richard looked upon it as only a curiosity without any particular worth, until he showed it to a friend, who urged him to investigate its origin. After more than a year studying the literature of Tibet and China, he found that the book was printed more than 1,000 years ago with movable type, at that time unknown in the western hemisphere. Mr. Richard says he has proved conclusively that the "Tanjur" was printed 700 years before the famous Gutenberg Bible, the first European book printed with movable type.

From an office boy for John D. Rockefeller Mr. Richard has come to travel in recent years in many foreign countries as representative of the Standard Oil company and other American firms. Before he left for the Orient, about eight years ago, he had one of the best stamp collections in this country, which he sold for $16,000.

"About five years ago I came into possession of the manuscript in Sanskrit, or, rather, in Devanagari, which in Tibetan is called the 'Tanjur,' the Sacred Book of Doctrine of the Tibetans," said Mr. Richard. "I came across it in a monastery at the same time that I found the 'Kanjur' at the border of Tibet. As no one there appeared to realize the value of the documents, I had no difficulty in obtaining them at a very low price. The only other 'Tanjur' in this country that I have positive knowledge of is in the American Museum of Natural History.

"The value of this rare book is said to differ according to the ink used.

For instance, a copy in red ink worth 108 times more than a copy in black; one in silver is more valuable than one in red, and one in yellow or gold is more highly prized than one in silver. The Manchu emperor of China, Kienlung, who flourished in 1796, had a copy of the 'Tanjur' which was said to have then been valued at $5,500."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Straws and Painted Lips.

"Somebody" or other said something "r other about straws showing which way the wind blows," remarked a soda fountain boy who served cool drinks to matinee girls and afternoon crowds; "but I know something that these soda-water straws point to."

"What do you know?" asked the girl assistant.

"I know that it's the girls with the pretty painted lips that use them. When a girl has just dolled herself all up in a carmine Cupid's bow effect she can't afford to have it all washed off with a glass of soda water and a paper napkin—no sir! So she always uses a straw. Maybe that's how the poem, 'Prettiest girl I ever saw was drinking soda through a straw' started. Ask me about the girls who come here. I know."—Chicago Journal.

German Woman Lawyer.

A woman appeared as an attorney for the first time in the history of German criminal courts a few days ago, when Fraulein Dr. Munk of Berlin acted as defendant counsel for a man accused of a street robbery.

The incident was the subject of considerable comment, and it has been suggested that this may lead to the appearance of tailors specializing in the attire of feminine lawyers. In some quarters the view is held that the presence of woman attorneys may exert a moderating influence in courts, such as tempering retorts from opposing counsel, although others point out that such repartee may be intensified if both opposing attorneys are women.

Fraulein Munk's cleverness and assurance in court created a distinctly favorable impression.

Weaving Industry of Peru.

A considerable increase in industrial activity is to be noticed in Peru. On the whole the textile industries have been the most successful, since cotton and wool are produced locally in quantities and qualities sufficient to ensure profitable results. The only other industries that have attained much importance include the manufacture of cottonseed oil, soap and cocaine. The cotton mills in Peru manufacture principally sail-cloth, filterpress cloth, towels and some other heavy goods. The total number of looms in operation is one thousand and fifteen, and the annual production is about fifteen million yards. The development of this industry will create a fairly good opening for cotton mill machinery. The woolen industry is also expected to expand.

Progress.

"Some day Crimson Gulch will be a great metropolis."

"Maybe," replied Cactus Joe. "We've got signs of improvement already. Hoss thieves have disappeared and tuxedo robbers have took their place."

Long Live the Sardines!

In Portugalete, a seaport of the Basque provinces of Spain, the people still talk of a certain amusing incident that took place at one time when a large crowd was watching the arrival of the popular king and queen. Suddenly someone shouted "Viva el Rey!"

"Viva! Viva!" echoed the crowd in a mighty voice.

Then the same fellow shouted, "Viva la Reina!"

"Viva! Viva!" came the answering volume from a thousand throats.

"Viva Espana!" cried the fellow.

"Viva! Viva!" was the prompt reply.

At that moment a woman who was selling sardines turned the corner.

"Sardinas, vivas sardines!" she shouted. And before the excited throng could restrain itself it had roared forth approvingly, Viva! Viva!—Youth's Companion.

Forty Years—Or More.

Mr. T— is past seventy and getting so absent-minded that sometimes he passes his best friends and even members of his family. His daughter in the early forties, who is a very progressive business woman, will not permit the family to keep him at home, saying that sensible people don't mind what an old man says.

But the other day she almost changed her mind. She was sitting in her office talking to a very attractive young bachelor when her father walked into the office. He spoke to the man and turned to his daughter.

"Your face looks very familiar!" he began. "Let's see—now wait—I'll recognize you in a minute. How long have I known you, my dear?"

The daughter said that her embarrassed pause was even more of a give-away than an answer to the question would have been.

Last Shot.

Two rival politicians recently spoke at the same gathering of women voters. One had desired first place but his rival having a pull, obtained it instead. And while the rival spoke he sat and simply "botted" with indignation.

But when his chance came to retort he made good use of it. "Every speaker should always have a text or pretext for speaking," he said. "My opponent having had the latter for his speech I will now choose the former and give my text."

Out in the Wagon.

It happened in southern Indiana. The sleek-haired, surefooted, suave drug clerk approached one of the "country lassies, pure and sweet."

"Is any one waiting on you, madam?"

"Why—er—yes; my feller is waitin' for me out in the wagon."

Day Set Apart for Women.

Only on one day of the year are women permitted to enter the Chapel of St. John the Baptist, which is the glory of the Cathedral of San Lorenzo in Genoa. The prohibition goes back to the days of Pope Innocent VIII, who imposed it in recollection of the daughter of Herodias.

7 to 9 p. m.—Concert and street dance, Brainerd Municipal band.

9 p. m.—Fireworks at Koering grounds.

Fireworks at the Koering grounds will face the fill. Mayor Little will have the fill closed to auto traffic during that period.

From 3 to 5:30 p. m. there will be a free dance at Lum park. At the evening dance in the park, after the fireworks, Niles orchestra will play, and a charge will be made, said A. K. Gumaer.

The street dancing will take place between 6th and 7th on Front street afternoon and evening.

Parking Rules

There will be no parking of cars allowed along any parade line during the week, said Mayor Little.

Detectives Here Now

For the protection of old timers, visitors and local people, the city authorities have reinforced the police force. In addition to special patrol men and traffic cops, the mayor has also engaged the services of two detectives, Pinkerton men, who will keep a lookout for pickpockets, burglars and other characters of the outside under world. Any of this outside under world gentry will be given short thrift.

Indians Arrived

The Chippewa braves, squaws and papooses have arrived from Walker. They will form the Indian village and take part in the Fourth of July parade. In the company are Jim Goose, Jack King and Bear Trap.

The Chippewa name for Brainerd in pioneer days, said Gust Kullander, was "Osh-Ke-Odaynah" meaning the "New City".

Barbecue at Lum Park

The barbecue at Lum park got started last night when Bob Carey, renowned chef, started to roast 600 pounds of pork and beef. A large trench 30 feet long was dug and oak coals heated the same. Sheet iron was added so the bank would not cave in.

Today the most delicious sand-sandwiches are being served, plus sauce and a cup of coffee, all for 15 cents. Roasted meat may be bought in quantities at 50 cents a pound.

Be sure and visit Lum park where the barbecue holds forth all week. Stands have been erected where the lunches will be served. Mr. Carey has officiated at barbecues from Louisiana to Minnesota, from the east to the west. He has recommendations from Rudolph Lee of Long Prairie, from St. Paul, Chicago and other cities.

HAS RARE VOLUME

American Proud Possessor of One of Oldest Books.

Believed to Have Been Printed in China Before Western Hemisphere Knew of Movable Type.

William Richard, former vice president of the American Numismatic society, who acquired two rare books during a trip to China several years ago, has announced after thorough investigation, his conviction that he has one of the rare books called the "Tanjur," or the Book of the Doctrine of the Tibetans.

For some time after he came into possession of the book, Mr. Richard looked upon it as only a curiosity without any particular worth, until he showed it to a friend, who urged him to investigate its origin. After more than a year studying the literature of Tibet and China, he found that the book was printed more than 1,000 years ago with movable type, at that time unknown in the western hemisphere. Mr. Richard says he has proved conclusively that the "Tanjur" was printed 700 years before the famous Gutenberg Bible, the first European book printed with movable type.

From an office boy for John D. Rockefeller Mr. Richard has come to travel in recent years in many foreign countries as representative of the Standard Oil company and other American firms. Before he left for the Orient, about eight years ago, he had one of the best stamp collections in this country, which he sold for $16,000.

"About five years ago I came into possession of the manuscript in Sanskrit, or, rather, in Devanagari, which in Tibetan is called the 'Tanjur,' the Sacred Book of Doctrine of the Tibetans," said Mr. Richard. "I came across it in a monastery at the same time that I found the 'Kanjur' at the border of Tibet. As no one there appeared to realize the value of the documents, I had no difficulty in obtaining them at a very low price. The only other 'Tanjur' in this country that I have positive knowledge of is in the American Museum of Natural History.

"The value of this rare book is said to differ according to the ink used.

For instance, a copy in red ink worth 108 times more than a copy in black; one in silver is more valuable than one in red, and one in yellow or gold is more highly prized than one in silver. The Manchui emperor of China, Kienlung, who flourished in 1796, had a copy of the "Tanjur" which was said to have then been valued at $6,500."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Straws and Painted Lips.

"Somebody's other said something 'r' other about straws showing which way the wind blows," remarked a soda fountain boy who served cool drinks to matinee girls and afternoon crowds; "but I know something that these soda-water straws point to."

"What do you know?" asked the girl assistant.

"I know that it's the girls with the pretty painted lips that use them. When a girl has just dolled herself all up in a carmine cupid's bow effect she can't afford to have it all washed off with a glass of soda water and a paper napkin—no sir! So she always uses a straw. Maybe that's how the poem, 'Prettiest girl I ever saw was drinking soda through a straw' started. Ask me about the girls who come here. I know."—Chicago Journal.

German Woman Lawyer.

A woman appeared as an attorney for the first time in the history of German criminal courts a few days ago, when Fraulein Dr. Munk of Berlin acted as defendant counsel for a man accused of a street robbery.

The incident was the subject of considerable comment, and it has been suggested that this may lead to the appearance of tailors specializing in the attire of feminine lawyers. In some quarters the view is held that the presence of woman attorneys may exert a moderating influence in courts, such as tempering retorts from opposing counsel, although others point out that such repartee may be intensified if both opposing attorneys are women.

Fraulein Munk's cleverness and assurance in court created a distinctly favorable impression.

Weaving Industry of Peru.

A considerable increase in industrial activity is to be noticed in Peru. On the whole the textile industries have been the most successful, since cotton and wool are produced locally in quantities and qualities sufficient to ensure profitable results. The only other industries that have attained much importance include the manufacture of cottonseed oil, soap and cocaine. The cotton mills in Peru manufacture principally sail-cloth, filterpress cloth, towels and some other heavy goods. The total number of looms in operation is one thousand and fifteen, and the annual production is about fifteen million yards. The development of this industry will create a fairly good opening for cotton mill machinery. The woolen industry is also expected to expand.

Progress.

"Some day Crimson Gulch will be a great metropolis."

"Maybe," replied Cactus Joe. "We've got signs of improvement already. Hoss thieves have disappeared and taxicab robbers have took their place."

Long Live the Sardines!

In Portugalete, a seaport of the Basque provinces of Spain, the people still talk of a certain amusing incident that took place at one time when a large crowd was watching the arrival of the popular king and queen. Suddenly someone shouted "Viva el Rey!"

"Viva! Viva!" echoed the crowd in a mighty voice.

Then the same fellow shouted, "Viva la Reina!"

"Viva! Viva!" came the answering volume from a thousand throats.

"Viva Espana!" cried the fellow.

"Viva! Viva!" was the prompt reply.

At that moment a woman who was selling sardines turned the corner.

"Sardinas, vivas sardinas!" she shouted. And before the excited throng could restrain itself it had roared forth approvingly, "Viva! Viva!"—Youth's Companion.

Forty Years—Or More.

Mr. T— is past seventy and getting so absent-minded that sometimes he passes his best friends and even members of his family. His daughter in the early forties, who is a very progressive business woman, will not permit the family to keep him at home, saying that sensible people don't mind what an old man says.

But the other day she almost changed her mind. She was sitting in her office talking to a very attractive young bachelor when her father walked into the office. He spoke to the man and turned to his daughter.

"Your face looks very familiar?" he began. "Let's see—now wait—I'll recognize you in a minute. How long have I known you, my dear?"

The daughter said that her embarrassed pause was even more of a give-away than an answer to the question would have been.

Last Shot.

Two rival politicians recently spoke at the same gathering of women voters. One had desired first place but his rival having a pull, obtained it instead. And while the rival spoke he sat and simply "bolloed" with indignation.

But when his chance came to retort he made good use of it. "Every speaker should always have a text or pretext for speaking," he said. "My opponent having had the latter for his speech I will now choose the former and give my text."

Out in the Wagon.

It happened in southern Indiana. The sleek-haired, surefooted, suave drug clerk approached one of the "country lassies, pure and sweet."

"Is any one waiting on you, madam?"

"Why—er—yes; my feller is waitin' for me out in the wagon."

GAS PLANT TO START UP SOON

Contractors Are Taking up Repairs at the Plant in Brainerd, New Compressor, Etc.

SIGN PLACED AT BUILDING

Notified Visitors at City's Celebration That the Plant Will Not be Idle Very Long

Brainerd's latest improvement which means a great deal to the manufacturing and domestic life of the city is now under way. The rehabilitation of the gas plant, which is going forward at once, brings real satisfaction to the citizens of this city. Gas is almost a necessity in a modern city and the re-opening of the plant here will be an occasion of real pleasure to those who have missed the convenience afforded by a supply of gas to their homes during the months in which the plant has been closed down.

S. F. Graves of the Chicago office of the William A. Baehr organization, Engineers-Chicago, was in town Monday preparing for the re-opening of the Brainerd gas plant. J. R. of Spiering of St. Cloud accompanied him. While in town these representatives of the Baehr organization placed a sign at the gas plant which reads:

"Citizens of Brainerd. The contracts for the rehabilitation of the Brainerd Gas Plant and Electric Co. Wm. A. Baehr, Pres. Mr. Baehr will be in Brainerd at an early date to direct the work in its progress.

The contracts let include an order for an new compressor and for the repairs necessary on the gas containers and other parts of the plant. Crews will soon be out going over the gas mains to determine where repairs to these are necessary. And after these necessary improvements are completed Brainerd will once again have the convenience which affords real benefit to its citizens.

EX SERVICE MEN REPORT FOR PARADE

The service men's committee asks that all ex-service men in the city and county report for the parade on Tuesday morning. The men will meet beside the old court house. All who are in possession of uniforms are asked to be out in uniform and all those whose uniforms are out of commission are asked to appear in civies. But all men are wanted in the parade. "If you have no uniform wear the victory medal," says the committee. "And if you have not secured a Victory medal yet just come in your regular street garb, but get out," say those who wish the service men to make a good showing.

All ex-service men who find it impossible to be at the old court house at 7 o'clock should report in time for the parade, 9 o'clock, on Oak street.

Unusual

A baby weighing only two pounds and one ounce was born in a New York hospital. It is described as the smallest perfectly formed normal baby on record. This baby's diminutive size is due to some peculiarity of its pituitary gland, a pea-sized lump of tissue at the base of the brain. That is knowledge that has been discovered within the last few years. Gradually we are learning about that most intricate of all machines, the human body.

—Welcome to Brainerd—

He could write a comic essay that would make you fairly roar and his after-dinner speeches were with humor brimming over, but when left to mind the baby his resources fairly failed and the funnier he tried to be the more the baby wailed.—Boston Transcript.

WILLMAR HIGH SCHOOL

Annual Banquet Held in Masonic Temple, Welcomed by Elmer Peterson

The annual banquet of the Willmar High School Alumni Association was held Friday evening at the Masonic Temple Willmar at 7 p. m. Over one hundred alumni were seated at the tables. The banquet hall had been attractively beautified with cut flowers. The ladies of the Presbyterian church served a splendid menu.

The class of 1922 of the local high school was welcomed to banquet and as members into the Association by Elmer Peterson. Irvin Peterson of the class of 1916 acted as toastmaster and served very capably in that capacity. The response from the new class was well given by Charles Davis. Toasts on prepared subjects were also given by Leslie Grace, Loyal Talakson and Harold Wetherby. The first mentioned are from the 1922 class and Mr. Wetherby from the class of 1921.

Impromptu toasts were given by Attorney R. W. Stanford, Lars Peterson and Dr. Alloys Branton.

A piano duet was played by the Misses Cora Osmundson and the Ethel Carlson.

Attention! Ex-Service Men

"IT IS DEMANDED", these are the words of the committee. It is demanded that all ex-service men report at the shed on Main street back of the Old court house at 7 o'clock sharp, Tuesday morning, July 4th, in uniform, with helmets and gas masks, to make final preparations for the parade. It is absolutely necessary that a large number be on hand. Men are requested not to fail to bring gas masks and helmets and are asked to be sure to report in uniform.

GOLF PLAY ON JULY FOURTH

Nine Hole Medal Play for Women and Nine Hole Medal Play for Men at Brainerd Country Club

ENTRY FEE OF 25c IS CHARGED

Jock Dryburgh Will Also Arrange a Tournament for Visiting Golfers, Great Scores Expected

On the Fourth of July there will be a nine hole medal play for women and nine hole medal play for men at the Brainerd Country club. In addition there will be a driving contest for women and an approaching contest for men. Players may start at any time during the day after paying an entry fee of 25 cents for each event. Suitable prizes will be given for each event. The amount of the entry fees will determine the value of the prizes and it is therefore desirable that many enter the contests.

The best way to get the players out to the grounds is for a player who expects to be there to call up someone who he wishes to play with and ask him to come out. The same thing applies to the ladies.

The driving contest for women and the approaching contest for men will be held sometime in the afternoon.

After it becomes known how many golfers will be visiting Brainerd next week a tournament will be arranged for them.

Met Little Falls

The members of the Brainerd Country club met the members of the Little Falls club in a team match on Sunday, July 2nd. Little Falls won the match by 53 strokes on 18 holes. Jock Dryburgh shot the first nine holes in 38.

The individual scores are as follows:

Little Falls Dr. W. H. K. Moyer 101. Dr. Amundson 105. Palmer Nelson 98. J. S. Lewis 102. Dr. F. Holst 102. W. E. Penfield 109.

Brainerd Dr. C. G. Nordin 101. John Linneman 116. T. B. Brusegaard 126. Dr. W. A. Erickson 116. Robert Duerr 117. E. J. Egan 105. Jock Dryburgh 79.

GAS PLANT TO START UP SOON

Contractors Are Taking up Repairs at the Plant in Brainerd, New Compressor, Etc.

SIGN PLACED AT BUILDING

Notified Visitors at City's Celebration That the Plant Will Not be Idle Very Long.

Brainerd's latest improvement which means a great deal to the manufacturing and domestic life of the city is now under way. The rehabilitation of the gas plant, which is going forward at once, brings real satisfaction to the citizens of this city. Gas is almost a necessity in a modern city and the re-opening of the plant here will be an occasion of real pleasure to those who have missed the convenience afforded by a supply of gas to their homes during the months in which the plant has been closed down.

S. F. Graves of the Chicago office of the William A. Baehr organization, Engineers-Chicago, was in town Monday preparing for the re-opening of the Brainerd gas plant. J. R. of Spiering of St. Cloud accompanied him. While in town these representatives of the Baehr organization placed a sign at the gas plant which reads:

"Citizens of Brainerd. The contracts for the rehabilitation of the Brainerd Gas Plant and Electric Co. Wm. A. Baehr, Pres. Mr. Baehr will be in Brainerd at an early date to direct the work in its progress.

The contracts let include an order for an new compressor and for the repairs necessary on the gas containers and other parts of the plant. Crews will soon be out going over the gas mains to determine where repairs to these are necessary. And after these necessary improvements are completed Brainerd will once again have the convenience which affords real benefit to its citizens.

EX SERVICE MEN REPORT FOR PARADE

The service men's committee asks that all ex-service men in the city and county report for the parade on Tuesday morning. The men will meet beside the old court house. All who are in possession of uniforms are asked to be out in uniform and all those whose uniforms are out of commission are asked to appear in civies. But all men are wanted in the parade. "If you have no uniform wear the victory medal," says the committee. "And if you have not secured a Victory medal yet just come in your regular street garb, but get out." say those who wish the service men to make a good showing.

All ex-service men who find it impossible to be at the old court house at 7 o'clock should report in time for the parade, 9 o'clock, on Oak street.

Unusual. A baby weighing only two pounds and one ounce was born in a New York hospital. It is described as the smallest perfectly formed normal baby on record. This baby's diminutive size is due to some peculiarity of its pituitary gland, a pea-sized lump of tissue at the base of the brain. That is knowledge that has been discovered within the last few years. Gradually we are learning about that most intricate of all machines, the human body.

Lucky.

Little Roger was being taken by his parents for a ride in their new motor car. As he looked out on the less fortunate people compelled to walk, he remarked: "Mother, ain't you glad we've us?"

Out of Place.

He could write a comic essay that would make you fairly roar and his after-dinner speeches were with humor brimming o'er, but when left to mind the baby his resources fairly failed and the funnier he tried to be the more the baby wailed.—Boston Transcript.

WILLMAR HIGH SCHOOL

Annual Banquet Held in Masonic Temple, Welcomed by Elmer Peterson

The annual banquet of the Willmar High School Alumni Association was held Friday evening at the Masonic Temple Willmar at 7 p. m. Over one hundred alumni were seated at the tables. The banquet hall had been attractively beautified with cut flowers. The ladies of the Presbyterian church served a splendid menu.

The class of 1922 of the local high school was welcomed to banquet and as members into the Association by Elmer Peterson. Irvin Peterson of the class of 1916 acted as toastmaster and served very capably in that capacity. The response from the new class was well given by Charles Davis. Toasts on prepared subjects were also given by Leslie Grace, Lloyal Taklason and Harold Wetherby. The first mentioned are from the 1922 class and Mr. Wetherby from the class of 1921.

Impromptu toasts were given by Attorney R. W. Stanford, Lars Peterson and Dr. Alloys Branton.

A piano duet was rendered by the Misses Cora Osmundson and the Ethel Carlson.

'TENSHUN!

Attention! Ex-Service Men

"IT IS DEMANDED", these are the words of the committee. It is demanded that all ex-service men report at the shed on Main street back of the Old court house at 7 o'clock sharp, Tuesday morning, July 4th, in uniform, with helmets and gas masks, to make final preparations for the parade. It is absolutely necessary that a large number be on hand. Men are requested not to fail to bring gas masks and helmets and are asked to be sure to report in uniform.

From the death notices of a New York paper, January 21, 1904: "In England, John Tucker, a soldier in Ashford barracks. He died at 4 o'clock in the morning; before 12 in the same day his widow was married to another man, and in the evening the happy couple followed the corpse of the first husband to the grave as chief mourners."

Horse Is Preferable Anyway.

Evelyn is only four but her parents admit she is "real smart." Recently her grandmother tried to teach her to say "danke soehen." Evelyn made a good effort with her American tongue and managed this: "Donkey chain." A few days later an occasion arose to use the expression. Evelyn hesitated a few moments and then gave this rather free rendering of the original German: "Horse chain."

GOLF PLAY ON JULY FOURTH

Nine Hole Medal Play for Women and Nine Hole Medal Play for Men at Brainerd Country Club

ENTRY FEE OF 25c IS CHARGED

Jock Dryburgh Will Also Arrange a Tournament for Visiting Golfers, Great Scores Expected

On the Fourth of July there will be a nine hole medal play for women and nine hole medal play for men at the Brainerd Country club. In addition there will be a driving contest for women and an approaching contest for men. Players may start at any time during the day after paying an entry fee of 25 cents for each event. Suitable prizes will be given for each event. The amount of the entry fees will determine the value of the prizes and it is therefore desirable that many enter the contests.

The best way to get the players out to the grounds is for a player who expects to be there to call up someone who he wishes to play with and ask him to come out. The same thing applies to the ladies.

The driving contest for women and the approaching contest for men will be held sometime in the afternoon.

After it becomes known how many golfers will be visiting Brainerd next week a tournament will be arranged for them.

Met Little Falls

The members of the Brainerd Country club met the members of the Little Falls club in a team match on Sunday, July 2nd. Little Falls won the match by 53 strokes on 18 holes.

Jock Dryburgh shot the first nine holes in 38.

The individual scores are as follows:

Little Falls Dr. W. H. K. Moyer 101. Dr. Amundson 105. Palmer Nelson 98. J. S. Lewis 102. Dr. F. Holst 102. W. E. Penfield 109.

Brainerd Dr. C. G. Nordin 101. John Linneman 116. T. B. Brusegaard 126. Dr. W. A. Erickson 116. Robert Duerr 117. E. J. Egan 108. Jock Dryburgh 79.

TRAIN LEAPS RAILS, 8 KILLED AND 37 HURT

flyer was traveling 70 miles an hour. The engineer did not slow down as he neared the junction, expecting a clear track.

The train was made up of two Pullman cars, one club car and four coaches. The speeding train took the switch at a leap, plowed fifty feet across the ground and curled up in a heap of wreckage.

Relief trains were rushed from Camden and Atlantic City. They carried several corps of physicians, also powerful cranes with which they could lift the wrecked cars. Red Cross nurses and American Legion men in nearby towns were organized and rushed to the scene. They worked frantically to extricate the injured.

Tower Man Refused to Talk

Winslow Junction, July 3.—Nine persons were killed when the Philadelphia & Reading midnight flyer shot through an open switch and was wrecked here today.

The New Jersey state police made this announcement this afternoon. Thirty-three persons are known to have been injured. John Dewalt, veteran tower man at the junction, was arrested following an investigation. He refused to make a statement.

Signal Apparatus Blamed

Winslow Junction, N. J., June 3.—Six persons were killed, according to official figures, and 32 injured, when the midnight flyer of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad plunged from the rails here early today.

Faulty mechanism of the signal apparatus was blamed for the disaster by John Dewalt, aged tower man, who disappeared after the accident and locked himself in his home.

Telephone Girl Heroine

Hammonton, N. J., July 3.—Miss Margaret Loughman, Hammonton telephone operator, was the heroine of the Philadelphia & Reading wreck today.

Miss Loughman was told of the wreck by a towerman a few minutes after it occurred. The girl immediately plugged through calls six at a time. She called every doctor and nurse for miles around, summoned the fire department of Hammonton, and called out members of the Red Cross and American Legion. Scores owe their prompt rescue to her coolness.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Sea Lion"

The crowds pouring into the New Park theatre give some evidence of the popularity of Hobart Bosworth, the star whose latest picture, "The Sea Lion," distributed by the Associated First National Pictures, Inc.,

Hobart Bosworth
in "The Sea Lion"

is showing there. In this film offering, Bosworth returns to the role in which he has been held highest in fan esteem, that of a grizzled cap-

GETTING READY FOR THE NEXT BIG SCRAP

Jess Willard, the former heavyweight champion, who has begun training for a return bout with Dempsey. The big fellow evidently is confident of his ability to beat the champion, for the financial end of the bout is of little consequence since Willard discovered oil on his farm properties.

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, mowing the lawn at his spacious and beautiful home at Los Angeles.

tain of seven seas whose iron domination knows no laws except those of brute force.

In this delineation of the rough character of the master of "The Lair," the star has mixed a quaint contrast in the pathetic father love that finds a reawakening in the final incidents of the story. It is this realistic contrast that puts the stamp of individuality upon the picture more than anything else and marks Bosworth as an actor of the first water.

The picture breathes the air of the sea and the story intermingles inherent brutality with a tense love story and heart appeal.

—Welcome to Brainerd—

"Shackles of Gold"

When William Farnum starts out to "get" his man you can be sure you are in for genuine thrills. Those who have seen this noted star in his new William Fox picture were indeed thrilled, and were enthusiastically with him in spirit when he began to wreck a certain oil stock in order to ruin a man who had tempted his—Farnum's—wife. The process was swift, sure and highly exciting; and the audience, while glad, were sorry, too, because in bringing financial ruin to the other man he also wrecked his own big fortune.

"Shackles of Gold" is a strong and entertaining photoplay which plays at the Lyceum tonight and Tuesday. It is a story in which a man of Farnum's great acting ability revels. It cannot be called a story of everyday life. It is a story that requires genius to create, because the plot is an unusual one and deals with incidents of life that are enacted rarely and are not common in daily newspaper records.

"Shackles of Gold" is based on Henri Bernstein's finest stage play, "Sampson." And William Farnum is certainly the ideal man for the central figure. It requires his great physical strength and his fine artistic sense. You live the play with William Farnum—and this fact is a fine recommendation for any play.

Myra Bonillas, who plays the wife, enacts her role charmingly and is a fine foil for Farnum.

"Shackles of Gold" is a worth while picture. It will be at the Lyceum theatre until Tuesday, closing on the evening of that day.

Big Screen Punch

A very spectacular punch is promised in the Western photoplay coming to the New Park theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, "Man to Man." It is a Universal-Jewel production of the highest type, said to be elaborately staged, and certainly if they used five thousand head of cattle in one stampede scene it must be.

HARRY CAREY in "MAN TO MAN"
A UNIVERSAL-JEWEL

Stuart Paton directed the picture. He also handled the megaphone in the making of "Conflict," the recent Universal-Jewel success which has gained a new army of fans for Priscilla Dean.

Jackson Gregory's novel of the West and the South Seas was adapted to the needs of Carey by George C. Hull.

Lillian Rich has the leading feminine role, while Harold Goodwin, Alfred Allen, Charles LeMoynes, Willis Robards, May Giraci and others enact important parts.

Joaquin Miller on Poetry.

Why, the true poetry is nothing but the common sense. Truth, beauty and again truth—the right heart! CELEBRATES THIRTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

Captain of Chicago White Sox Observes Birthday.

Eddie Collins Was Picked Up by the Philadelphia Athletics in 1906—Still Playing Wonderful Game at the Keystone Sack.

Eddie Collins, second baseman and captain of the Chicago White Sox, one of the greatest stars ever in baseball, celebrated his birthday recently.

"Captain Eddie" was thirty-five years old, or more appropriately, young. In the fifteenth year of his long and honorable major league career, he is going as strong as he was in the first, or the fifth, or the tenth, and it can't be safely predicted how many more years he will be playing his old, steady, wonderful game around the keystone sack, at bat and on the paths.

Edward Trowbridge Collins was born at Millerton, N. J., May 2, 1887, and played his first baseball, aside from that with other small uncles, on the town common in 1904, with the Columbia university team at New York. He was a college player in 1905 and 1906, and in 1906 he was picked up by the Philadelphia American league club. In that first year he used the name of "Eddie" Sullivan, because as a college player he could not participate in organized baseball and retain his amateur standing.

When Collins first went to Philadelphia he was tried out at short and third base, and the ensuing year he played shortstop. In 1908, with the Athletics, he alternated at second base, third base and shortstop in 102 games, and hit for an average of .273, his lowest average since he entered the ranks of organized baseball.

The White Sox captain has been in six world's series, has stolen more bases than any other world's series player, and his work in those classics probably outshone that of any other individual. Collins came to Chicago in 1914 by transfer, the Sox paying a reported $50,000 for him.

The Sox infield leader is a resident of a Philadelphia suburb. He has two sons, one four and the other ten years of age. Eddie's latest hobby is radio.

INTERESTING SPORT NOTES

Washington and Jefferson is without a "varsity" nine this season.

Now Jack Dempsey can come back and say, "When I was in France."

A golf pit is the stuff you have to swallow when a duffer tells you his score.

Championships may be all right, but the big gate and the huge returns still count for much.

The English cup soccer semi-final games were attended by 142,418 spectators, who paid admissions totaling $62,570.

Jack Dempsey was uproariously greeted by a Berlin crowd anxious, no doubt, to see one of our foremost shipyard workers.

Detroit has been awarded the Central Association Amateur Athletic union outdoor track and field championship games.

COUPON PASSES

To insure necessary funds for their new stadium, the athletic authorities of the University of California are selling seats in the structure for ten years in advance.

For a donation of $100, each of the Bear's beneficiaries is presented with a certificate of the coupon-bond type. Once a year, for the next decade, the coupons will be exchanged for season passes, entitling the bearer to at least $10 worth of "varsity" entertainment.

Henhouse Raided by Flying Rat.

Sam Cherowski, a Russian farmer, living a mile below Pucker, Conn., says flying rats are carrying off eggs and young chicks.

Sam declares they are not bats, nor flying squirrels, but big rats with wings like a bird. All rat holes to his henhouse were plugged and still the eggs and chickens disappeared. The farmer hid and watched for the marauder. Soon, he said, through a broken window up near the roof a flying rat came in.

Backsliding.

"Fellie seems interested in that book she's reading."
"She's careful to keep the title hidden. Maybe it's a naughty book."
"It may be Dickens, or something of that sort. Even a flapper hates to be ridiculed by other young women in the same way of life."

A TOUGH SITUATION

"My wife and four children were dependent on me for their living. My stomach and liver trouble of five years had made me despondent, as no medicine seemed to help me, and I was gradually wasting away. It was a tough situation. My cousin in Columbus wrote me about having taken Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and advised me to try it. I am now feeling better than for fifteen years." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson's Pharmacy and leading druggists. Adv.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH

YOU CAN'T ENJOY LIFE with a sore, sour, bloated stomach. Food does not nourish. Instead it is a source of misery, causing pains, belching, dizziness and headaches.

The person with a bad stomach should be satisfied with nothing less than permanent, lasting relief.

The right remedy will act upon the linings of the stomach, enrich the blood, aid in casting out the catarrhal poisons and strengthen every bodily function.

The large number of people who have successfully used Dr. Hartman's famous medicine, recommended for all catarrhal conditions, offer the strongest possible endorsement for flyer was traveling 70 miles an hour. The engineer did not slow down as he neared the junction, expecting a clear track.

The train was made up of two Pullman cars, one club car and four coaches. The speeding train took the switch at a leap, plowed fifty feet across the ground and curled up in a heap of wreckage.

Relief trains were rushed from Camden and Atlantic City. They carried several corps of physicians, also powerful cranes with which they could lift the wrecked cars. Red Cross nurses and American Legion men in nearby towns were organized and rushed to the scene. They worked frantically to extricate the injured.

Tower Man Refused to Talk

Winslow Junction, N. J., June 3.—Nine persons were killed when the Philadelphia & Reading midnight flyer shot through an open switch and was wrecked here today.

The New Jersey state police made this announcement this afternoon. Thirty-three persons are known to have been injured. John Dewalt, veteran tower man at the junction, was arrested following an investigation. He refused to make a statement.

Signal Apparatus Blamed

Winslow Junction, N. J., June 3.—Six persons were killed, according to official figures, and 32 injured, when the midnight flyer of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad plunged from the rails here early today.

Faulty mechanism of the signal apparatus was blamed for the disaster by John Dewalt, aged tower man, who disappeared after the accident and locked himself in his home.

Telephone Girl Heroine

Hammoncton, N. J., July 3.—Miss Margaret Loughman, Hammoncton telephone operator, was the heroine of the Philadelphia & Reading wreck today.

Miss Loughman was told of the wreck by a towerman a few minutes after it occurred. The girl immediately plugged through calls six at a time. She called every doctor and nurse for miles around, summoned the fire department of Hammoncton, and called out members of the Red Cross and American Legion. Scores owe their prompt rescue to her coolness.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Sea Lion"

The crowds pouring into the New Park theatre give some evidence of the popularity of Hobart Bosworth, the star whose latest picture, "The Sea Lion," distributed by the Associated First National Pictures, Inc.,

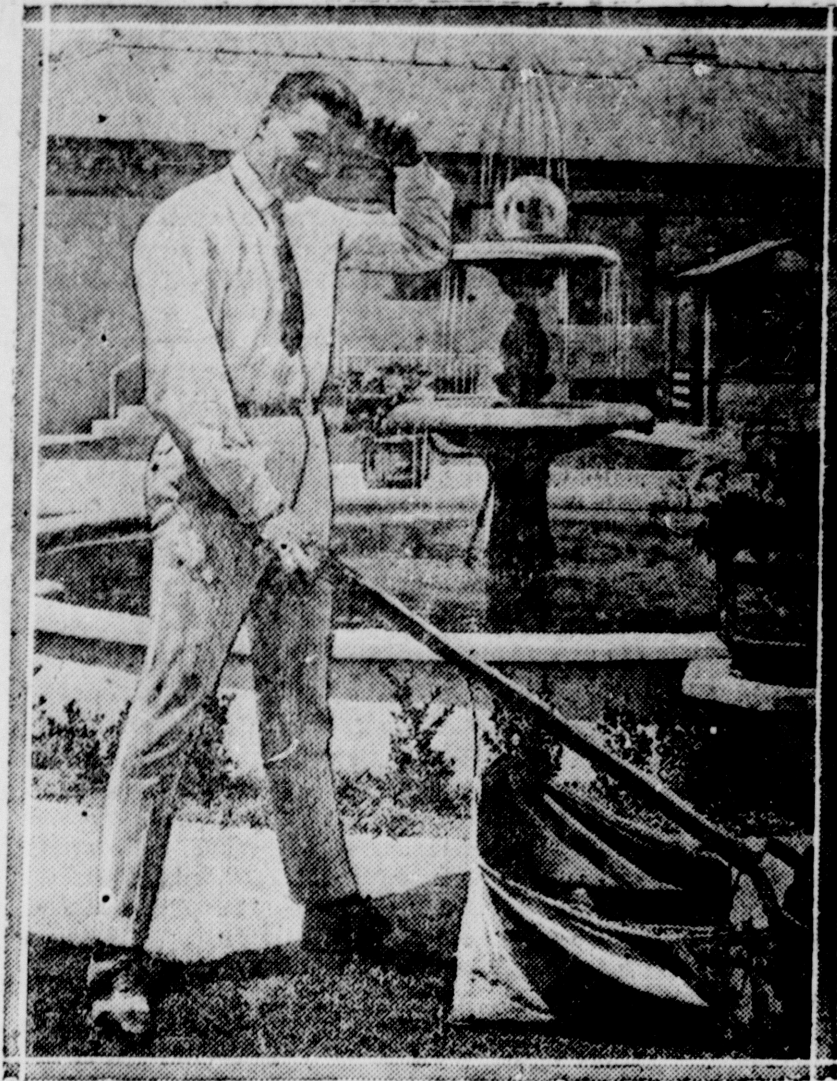

Hobart Bosworth

is showing there. In this film offering, Bosworth returns to the role in which he has been held highest in fan esteem, that of a grizzled captain of seven seas whose iron domination knows no laws except those of brute force.

GETTING READY FOR THE NEXT BIG SCRAP

Jesse Willard, the former heavyweight champion, who has begun training for a return bout with Dempsey. The big fellow evidently is confident of his ability to beat the champion, for the financial end of the bout is of little consequence since Willard discovered oil on his farm properties.

In this delineation of the rough character of the master of "The Lair," the star has mixed a quaint contrast in the pathetic father love that finds a reawakening in the final incidents of the story. It is this realistic contrast that puts the stamp of individuality upon the picture more than anything else and marks Bosworth as an actor of the first water.

The picture breathes the air of the sea and the story intermingles inherent brutality with a tense love story and heart appeal.

"Shackles of Gold"

When William Farnum starts out to "get" his man you can be sure you are in for genuine thrills. Those who have seen this noted star in his new William Fox picture were indeed thrilled, and were enthusiastically with him in spirit when he began to wreck a certain oil stock in order to ruin a man who had tempted his Farnum's wife. The process was swift, sure and highly exciting; and the audience, while glad, were sorry, too, because in bringing financial ruin to the other man he also wrecked his own big fortune.

"Shackles of Gold" is a strong and entertaining photoplay which plays at the Lyceum tonight and Tuesday. It is a story in which a man of Farnum's great acting ability reveals, it cannot be called a story of everyday life. It is a story that requires genius to create, because the plot is an unusual one and deals with incidents of life that are enacted rarely and are not common in daily newspaper records.

"Shackles of Gold" is based on Henri Bernstein's finest stage play, "Sampson." And William Farnum is certainly the ideal man for the central figure. It requires his great physical strength and his fine artistic sense. You live the play with William Farnum—and this fact is a fine recommendation for any play.

Myra Bonillas, who plays the wife, enacts her role charmingly and is a fine foil for Farnum.

"Shackles of Gold" is a worth while picture. It will be at the Lyceum theatre until Tuesday, closing on the evening of that day.

Big Screen Punch

A very spectacular punch is promised in the Western photoplay coming to the New Park theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, "Man to Man." It is a Universal-Jewel production of the highest type, said to be elaborately staged, and certainly if they used five thousand head of cattle in one stampede scene it must be.

HARRY CAREY in "MAN TO MAN"
A UNIVERSAL-JEWEL

Stuart Paton directed the picture. He also handled the megaphone in the making of "Conflict," the recent Universal-Jewel success which has gained a new army of fans for Priscilla Dean.

Jackson Gregory's novel of the West and the South Seas was adapted to the needs of Carey by George C. Hull.

Lillian Rich has the leading feminine role, while Harold Goodwin, Alfred Allen, Charles LeMoynes, Willis Robards, May Giraci and others enact important parts.

Joaquin Miller on Poetry.

Why, the true poetry is nothing but the common sense. Truth, beauty and again truth—the right heart! No poet can create or destroy one particle of truth or beauty or common sense, any more than he can create or destroy a particle of gold. He can only give it a new form, garment it with splendor, and set it in a new light.—Joaquin Miller.

CELEBRATES THIRTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

Captain of Chicago White Sox Observes Birthday.

Eddie Collins Was Picked Up by the Philadelphia Athletics in 1906—Still Playing Wonderful Game at the Keystone Sack.

Eddie Collins, second baseman and captain of the Chicago White Sox, one of the greatest stars ever in baseball, celebrated his birthday recently.

"Captain Eddie" was thirty-five years old, or more appropriately, young. In the fifteenth year of his long and honorable major league career, he is going as strong as he was in the first, or the fifth, or the tenth, and it can't be safely predicted how many more years he will be playing his old, steady, wonderful game around the keystone sack, at bat and on the paths.

Edward Trowbridge Collins was born at Millerton, N. J., May 2, 1887, and played his first baseball, aside from that with other small uniforms, on the town common in 1904, with the Columbia university team at New York. He was a college player in 1905 and 1906, and in 1906 he was picked up by the Philadelphia American league club. In that first year he used the name of "Eddie Sullivan," because as a college player he could not participate in organized baseball and retain his amateur standing.

When Collins first went to Philadelphia he was tried out at short and third base, and the ensuing year he played shortstop. In 1908, with the Athletics, he alternated at second base, third base and shortstop in 192 games, and hit for an average of .273, his lowest average since he entered the ranks of organized baseball.

The White Sox captain has been in six world's series, has stolen more bases than any other world's series player, and his work in those classics probably outshone that of any other individual. Collins came to Chicago in 1914 by transfer, the Sox paying a reported $50,000 for him.

The Sox infield leader is a resident of a Philadelphia suburb. He has two sons, one four and the other ten years of age. Eddie's latest hobby is radio.

INTERESTING SPORT NOTES

Washington and Jefferson is without a 'varsity nine this season.

Now Jack Dempsey can come back and say, "When I was in France."

A golf pill is the stuff you have to swallow when a duffer tells you his score.

Championships may be all right, but the big gate and the huge returns still count for much.

The English cup soccer semi-final games were attended by 142,418 spectators, who paid admissions totaling $62,570.

Jack Dempsey was uproariously greeted by a Berlin crowd anxious, no doubt, to see one of our foremost shipyard workers.

Detroit has been awarded the Central Association Amateur Athletic union outdoor track and field championship games.

COUPON PASSES

To insure necessary funds for their new stadium, the athletic authorities of the University of California are selling seats in the structure for ten years in advance.

For a donation of $100, each of the Bear's benefactors is presented with a certificate of the coupon-bond type. Once a year, for the next decade, the coupons will be exchanged for season passes, entitling the bearer to at least $10 worth of 'varsity entertainment.

Hanhouse Raided by Flying Rat. Sam Cherowski, a Russian farmer, living a mile below Pucker, Conn., says flying rats are carrying off eggs and young chicks.

Sam declares they are not bats, nor flying squirrels, but big rats with wings like a bird. All rat holes to his henry were plugged and still the eggs and chickens disappeared. The farmer hid and watched for the intruder. Soon, he said, through a broken window up near the roof a flying rat came in.

Backsliding. "Felice seems interested in that book she's reading."

"She's careful to keep the title hidden. Maybe it's a naughty book."

"It may be Dickens, or something of that sort. Even a flapper hates to be ridiculed by other young women in the same way of life."

A Tough Situation. "My wife and four children were dependent on me for their living. My stomach and liver trouble of five years had made me despondent, as no medicine seemed to help me, and I was gradually wasting away. It was a tough situation. My cousin in Columbus wrote me about having taken Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and advised me to try it. I am now feeling better than for fifteen years." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson's Pharmacy and leading druggists. Adv.
